

“Share the Experience”

with Michael Doerr

During one and two-day workshops Michael assembles a chair in block form and discusses how these blocks, once assembled, can be transformed into a comfortable chair. Key considerations: seat to back comfort, relationship, design elements when creating your own chair, selection of appropriate woods and grain considerations.

Finished chairs are on display for hands-on viewing. Michael equips students with the knowledge and experience needed to design their own chairs.

Week long, hands-on classes are provided at the Doerr Woodworking Studio in Door County, Wisconsin. Students follow Michael in constructing their own chair from a set of blocks prepared in advance for them. Upon completing the workshop, the student will leave with the satisfaction of their creation. The week long course is limited to one or two student participants, and is available by appointment.
